READING GLASSES

There are versions of this story all over the world. I read it in Spanish and also in Chinese. See if you can figure out why this story should fascinate different people. Our version takes place towards the close of the last century. In another country. Tomas was a very hard and willing farm worker. All the farmers in the district were glad when he came to work. He was also very cheerful.

His particular farm had a new foreman. He was seated on a small stool reading a newspaper.

"What is it you have over your eyes" asked Tomas.

"Reading glasses," was the short reply.

"And with them you can read the newspaper?" continued Tomas

"Without them I would not be able to read," was the correct answer. "I bought them in the city. There is a store. Has a lot of eyeglasses outside."

In those days, in some countries you could go into a shop and try on made-up eyeglasses. Until you found one that you felt suited you. Tomas went to this shop. He tried on pair after pair. The owner watched him

"What's wrong?" asked the owner. "That is the 67th. pair you tried on.

"I am trying to find a pair so I can read," replied Tomas who held a newspaper in his hand.

When the owner saw the newspaper was upside down. He knew what was wrong. And told Tomas he first would have to go to school.

BARGAIN IN BASS

The first day of the Bass season is an event that freshwater fishermen wait 363 days of the year to arrive. And when it comes they head out for their favorite spot to be ahead of all others. But no use. That is just what the other fishermen do. So you can readily see that how they come to be side by side on the shores of a lake. And that is when the fisherman casts his line out and reels in the chances are he has his neighbor's line and not a bass.

The reporter was there to cover the event for his newspaper. He noticed something happen when a fisherman quit. Two boys - evidently twins - would go to the man. And soon the three would be walking to the road. The reporter started to walk to the road. And sure enough the two boys came up to him.

Want some bass, mister" asked one. "We got them for you. Just follow us."

So the three came to the road and another boy had some bass. "They are frozen. Two bucks each. Don't ask questions."

The reporter bought two fish. Set him back four dollars. The other boy raised a point.

"You want them to keep, mister. For one dollar more, you get a small plastic bucket and ice."

He bought that deal. Later he spotted the Deputy Sheriff and suggested something might not be in the law.

"Perfectly legal," replied the lawman. "They are frozen trout shipped here from Denmark. The boys bought them in a chain store. Makes everyone happy. Mom gets rid of their cheap fund. I happen to be their dad.

REVENGE?

There are many humorous stories and jokes told about M.D.'s. Why? Maybe because people envy them. Who knows? But recently humorous stories and jokes are being told about plumbers. Again, Why? A Master Plumber is a very highly respected man in his field. And perhaps, if you have had to pay a plumber's bill recently, you figure he also earns good money. In fact they are even calling the Plumber: Drain Surgeon! This story concerns an M.D. and a Plumber.

It was 2:40 in the morning. The Plumber called his family physician on the phone:

"Hurry over at once. My wife has terrible pains in her head. I think she is dying."

"I know your wife," was the reply on the phone. "She isn't dying. Give her two aspirin I'll be over at 11 in the morning.

A week later, the wife of the plumber called the family physician on the phone at 3:20 in the morning.

"Hurry over at once. My husband has terrible pains in his stomach. I think he is dying."

"I know your husband", was the reply on the phone. He isn't dying. Give him two aspirin I'll be over at 11 in the morning

And just one week later it was the M.D. who called the plumber at 3:25 in the morning.

"Hurry over at once. My drain is stuck. The basement is beginning to flood."

"I know your drain," was the reply on the phone. Give it two aspirin. I'll be over at 11 in the morning. Now go back to bed and forget it."

This free booklet tells you how you can break into Computer Programming

23,000 more programmers needed each year...get your basic training now!

...by training at home. Also FREE: Interesting sample lesson for you to try. No obligation.

Why don't you prepare for a career in programming? All it takes to start your training is a high school education and a logical mind. No machines are involved because a programmer does not operate machines. He writes the programs that tell the computers what to do.

Programmers are to be found in many types of business—in manufacturing, banks, department stores, communications, transportation, utilities. Trainees begin at good pay, and with the right background and experience can rise to fill supervisory positions at upper-level salaries.

Instead of worrying about how long your present job is going to last, you can plan for a bigger future in a growth field. Continuing expansion in the years ahead may result in more openings for computer programmers than there will be people to fill them!

Right now, without leaving your present job, you can prepare for a trainee position in computer programming. A position that may open up many opportunities for you—in the exciting world of tomorrow.

You can study computer programming with LaSalle at home, in your spare time. Experienced LaSalle instructors will teach you by mail—correct and grade your lesson assignments. You will receive basic instruction in the nature, hardware, vocabulary, equipment and techniques of computer programming.

Send for free sample lesson and fascinating booklet "Beginning Your Career in Computer Programming." In simple, non-technical language this booklet tells you what computer programming is; what the programmer does; and how you can get your basic training in your spare time. LaSalle, 417 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois 60605.
